“Yeah, why else did I go to college for 8 years to be turning someone else’s key!! Time is important. Better to start right away with my own business than to juggle a bunch of part-time stints with no long-lasting benefits to me or society. You are right... I just hope to God that I find my way through the obstacles, and plethora of get-rich-quick schemes and information out there on the net! Your book will be a fine manual for putting this business together.” a client

The Prequel:

Ducks in a Row!

Ducks in a Row??? Please. How to find the courage to finally QUIT your soul-draining, life-sapping, energy-depleting, freedom-robbing job now...before it's too late...and live passionately ever after! (ISBN-13: 978-1482364187; 5.5" x 8.5"; 100pp) is the "prequel" to Turn Your Passion Into Profit and answers a question I often get asked by coaching clients and workshop attendees who want to know how I did it!

THE DEFINITION: ducks in a row: slang. Everything is ready, all preparations are complete; to have everything just the way you want before you take the next step. Usage example: "I definitely want to quit my job and pursue my passion, but I want to get all my ducks in a row before I hand in my resignation."

THE FLAW: Sure, we've all seen ducks in a row. The trouble is, you'll never meet a set of ducks who enjoy standing in a row for too long. Watch them long enough and they eventually break formation. In other words, if you're waiting for things to be perfect and stay perfect for before you act on your dreams, and if quitting your job and becoming a passionpreneur is contingent on your ducks staying in line for the duration, you might be in for a rude awakening.

THE TRUTH: It's not about the freakin' ducks!! It never was and never will be. It's about finding the courage to do something you need to do whether the ducks are arranged the way you want them to be or not! See, if you make it about the ducks, then you've got to keep herding ducks every day of your life. On the other hand, if you practice taking action regardless of what formation the ducks are in, you'll be better prepared for the realities of life as well as business! The truth is, I know your dirty little secret and I'm going to expose it. The truth is, there ARE no ducks!!! That's just an excuse you're using to delay taking action. Well, you don't have to play that game any more! In this prequel to Turn Your Passion Into Profit, I'll take you through the step-by-step mental, emotional and physical processes of what it took to make that life-changing decision, hand in my resignation, burn that bridge, and walk away from my "good job" forever with no safety net and not even a penny in savings! There was something in particular that gave me the courage to do it, and I share that with you in all its gory detail!

"It's not about the freaking' ducks! It's about finding the courage to live your dreams regardless of what formation the ducks are in! ~

W. Goodridge (duck slayer)

The Testimonials

"Walt, next to my Bible, your book, Turn Your Passion Into Profit is the book I reference the most in my house! It is the only other book that is constantly visible (it's on the dining room table right now)!"

—Karon Mason Etienne

"...My husband had a total revelation about his passion as a result of your book two years ago and we both really like your work. Peace and Blessings, Ruth!"—Ruth Kirby, Medford, OR

"Do you know how it is when you've run across something that is just what you've been looking for, but didn't know you were looking for it? Well, that's how I feel about having found your [Passionprofit.com] site! I am excited about what I see in your company and am looking forward to becoming more involved. Honestly Walt, I haven't seen anything on the internet that has so moved me as what I've experienced visiting your site! Thanks again and again!"—Henry Street

"I have read many "self-help" books, but yours is actually instructional and answers questions. It addresses how I feel and what I am thinking. I also e-mailed you several months ago about how I [pursue my passion] when I have a house to pay for, a child to support, etc...and you told me to start out slowly and build. Like you said in your book, it is scary. However, I am doing what you said and am starting to feel so much better. I realize I have a long way to go but, I think just realizing that I don't have to stay in one of those 9-to-5 jobs working for someone else gives me so much courage to get out there and start doing what I want! Thank you so much for the book and the inspiration. I truly appreciate it!"—Tammy van der Leest

"I want to thank you again for all the insights you shared with me yesterday. Listening to you enabled me to see my situation in a whole new light. As a result, I'm now focusing on various activities I would like to engage in rather than fretting over my life's purpose, which I'm sure will show itself to me in time."—Shelly

"I will be eternally grateful to know that there is a mentor out there who is available to offer advice on turning my passion into profit! Again thanks... I will ponder over what you've just shared with me for the remainder of the day and I am certain my God-given brain will come up with some answers and thought-provoking questions! Thanks!! PS. I was up for 5 hours last night browsing your site and taking in information! What swell work you have done!!" —T., a client

"I've seen a lot of motivational books (such as Tony Robbins' stuff) and this one is VERY different. What you don't get is the typical fluff and puff of most motivational writings that only temporarily make you feel inspired yet leaving the reader with not knowing really how to apply it. This author actually describes the "HOW TO" in coming up with your own passion ideas for making an income stream based off what you know and what you are passionate about. This is the KEY difference. He describes the step by step process and even shows how he markets his books too. I haven't seen other motivational books that do that. This author is very direct, real and down to earth which is what I think makes him so credible. It's real life common sense stuff that he teaches you how to act on and a lot of "make sense" philosophical creeds" to go along with it all. I give this book the highest possible recommendation. It can be a life changer to those who read it!"—Steve Neese

You'll have to read the book to find out what my answer is!

- Peter J. Patsula, from Successful Business Planning in 30 Days

Excerpt: Passion not only inspires innovation, determination and boundless energy, but it is also contagious. Sharing your passion also helps others tap into their own. Walt Goodridge, author of Turn Your Passion Into Profit, sums it up well:

"Value No One Can Match"

"If you create and market a product or service through a business that is in alignment with your personality, capitalizes on your history, incorporates your experiences, harnesses your talents, optimizes your strengths, complements your weaknesses, honors your life's purpose, and moves you towards the conquest of your own fears, there is ABSOLUTELY NO WAY that anyone in this or any other universe can offer the same value that you do!" The Author

"Once upon a time, there was a civil engineer who hated his job, followed his passion, started a sideline business publishing his own books, made enough money to quit his job, ran away to a tropical island in the Pacific, and started a tourism business so he could give tours of the island to pretty girls every day...and live a nomadpreneur's dream life!"

A Columbia University graduate with a Bachelor of Science in civil engineering, Walt, like many people, was destined for a career in his profession of training. In fact, immediately after graduating, he accepted a job working in the Design Division of the Port Authority Engineering department on the 73rd floor of World Trade Center One. However, within the first fifteen minutes of this his first job in corporate America, Walt, frustrated by the monotony and restrictions as well as the prospect of a lifetime of nine-to-five employment, realized beyond the shadow of a doubt, that he absolutely hated it!

Seeking to escape by pursuing his passion for music, and using his experience and contacts from his college stint as an on-air radio deejay, he started a series of sideline business ventures as album cover designer, then artist manager, then record label owner, and, after stumbling upon the idea for publishing his first book about the business side of the music industry, walked away from his engineering career to become a full-time "passionpreneur." He authored more books on the music industry, created a brand of inspiration called "Life Rhymes," and launched dozens of websites and unique products.

As he honed his experience living true to himself as "passionpreneur," he developed a unique "Passion Profit Philosophy & Formula" to help others do the same. In 1999, he published it in Turn Your Passion into Profit which, with frequent updates (like this one), has been a top seller in home-business books on Amazon.com.

A few years later, Walt booked a one-way ticket to a Pacific island and escaped the rat race to live out his dream of being a "nomadpreneur."

Walt owns and operates over 50 websites, has written over 30 books, over 400 articles and over 500 motivational poems. He has written for Entrepreneur Magazine and Black Enterprise, and has been featured in Time Magazine, Wall Street Journal Online, the Dallas Morning News, The Kip Business Report and other publications and websites.

Walt is originally from the island of Jamaica, and now lives a vegan lifestyle on the island of Saipan. Learn more about Walt at www.waltgoodridge.com
